

SON TWO - JOHN BLACK AND HELEN STEEL

DESCENDANTS OF THEIR THIRD SON

JAMES BLACK AND MARGARET NISBIT

Turnhigh Road is today south of Whitburn and north of Longridge. Burnside is not located. This map shows Back of Moss, Stonehead (Stanehead) and Rashierigg, another Black farm. The village of Longridge contained the church where many of the Blacks worshipped and whose records have been lost.

MEMORIES AND MELODIES PAGES 206-208

James, third Bushdyke son, had as his wife, Margaret Nesbit, and was tenant of Burnside, near Turnhigh Whitburn. There were three sons and five daughters.

John, married to Mary Grey, entered Back o' Moss in 1840. There were three sons, James, George, and John, and four daughters, Margaret, Agnes, Isabella, and Mary.

James and his wife, both deceased, left two sons, John and James, and two daughters, Mary and Janet.

George, second Back o' Moss son, is farmer at Penston, East Lothian, his wife being Elizabeth Shanks, formerly of Turnhigh. They have four sons and one daughter.

John, the eldest son, is a clergyman in Kaffraria, while the other three are devoted to agricultural pursuits in East Lothian.

John, third Back o' Moss son, is still farmer there, he and his wife, Marion Mungall, having a family of sons and daughters.

It may be noted, in passing, that Mr James Walker, merchant, Bathgate, is a grandson of John Black, formerly of Back o' Moss, his mother being Agnes, wife of James Walker, Grahamston.

Thomas, second Burnside son, was married to Ann, daughter of John Russell, farmer, Foulshiels. Soon after the birth of their one daughter, the mother died, and a few years later the father was killed by the upsetting of his cart. The orphan girl was brought to Burnside, where she assisted her grandfather, and in course of years became Mrs John Sommerville. She is now in her widowhood, living with a son in Greenock. Another son is in Edinburgh, and there are also two daughters. It ought, in strict justice, to be told that much of the information in this history was gleaned by her during a lengthy lifetime, she being now over eighty years of age.

Alexander, third son of James, of Burnside, is highly entitled to very honourable mention, because, at the cost of his own, he saved the life of another man from drowning in the Forth near Stirling. His wife's name was Mary Galbraith. They had four sons and one daughter.

James, eldest, a baker in Glasgow, went with his family to Melbourne. He and his wife died in Dunedin several years ago. Alexander, second son, was formerly a tannery manager in London, afterwards going to Belgium. Peter, the third son, was a baker, and became a successful colonist. John, the youngest son, who had hard times in his youth, being orphaned when only four years of age, knew life as a herd-boy at Liltie-co-kee and at Craighead. He became a cooper, a musician, and, in manners and morals, a man worth knowing. With his family of sons and daughters he now lives in Glasgow. Janet, the hero's only daughter, with husband and family, went abroad, and worked themselves into comfortable circumstances.

Of the Burnside daughters, Agnes became Mrs Wm. Mungall, Helen became Mrs Peter Thornton, Rashiehill, and, in both cases, these families emigrated to America many years ago.

Margaret Thornton, Rashiehill, was married to Robert Thomson, Stonemains, near Knowton, and had several children. One son, Peter, lives in Whitburn, and another, James, lives in Bathgate. There are also several female descendants at various other places. Isabella Thornton was married to William Stark, Cambusnethan. Mary, of Burnside, was married to Robert Stewart, West Forth. A grand-daughter, Mrs Thomas Smith, resides in Rowantree Cottage, Cambuslang. Janet became Mrs Wm. Macgregor, and Jane Mrs David Roberts, Burnbrae.

*Reminder: * as JB didn't mention this individual; their story ends in the table.*

whereas ^ tells you there is another generation within this document.

The accompanying tree however might show several more generations than is in this narrative.

SECOND GENERATION

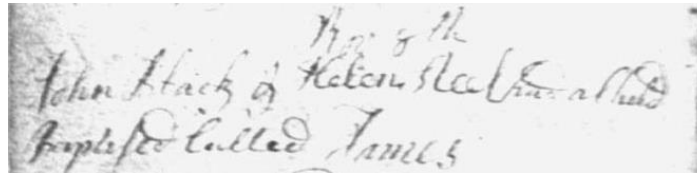

JAMES BLACK AND MARGARET NISBIT

Residence - Burnside, Whitburn, West Lothian

James, third Bushdyke son, had as his wife, Margaret Nesbit, and was tenant of Burnside, near Turnhigh Whitburn. There were three sons [John, Thomas, Alexander] and five daughters [Agnes, Helen, Janet, Mary, Jane].

JAMES BLACK

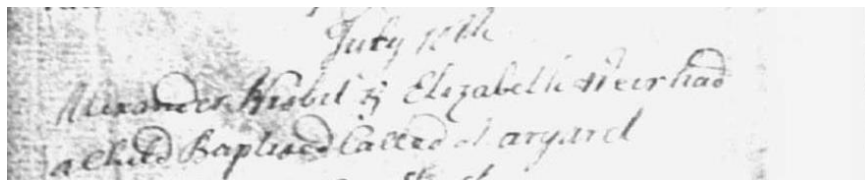

James was baptised on 8 November 1761 in West Calder.

Parish baptism records – West Calder, Midlothian.

MARGARET NISBIT

Margaret's birth at West Calder on 10 July 1763 showed the spelling Nisbit. Her father was Alexander and her mother Elizabeth Weir.

Parish baptism records – West Calder, Midlothian.

JB referred to her as Nesbit and her descendants used both variations when naming their children.

MARRIAGE AND CHILDREN

James and Margaret married on 31 May 1789 in Whitburn.

A snippet of a handwritten marriage record from Whitburn, West Lothian. The text reads: "1789 January 24th James Steel on Cambusnethan parish & Mary Black on this parish --- 26 May 31st James Black & Margaret Nesbit both on this parish --- 26".

Parish marriage records – Whitburn, West Lothian.

We have located baptisms for only three of their eight children named by JB and have assumed the births all took place at Burnside.

The last two may have been twins, though only Alexander's birth is recorded on Scotland's People, but some trees show Jane's birth as the same date.

We are unaware when James and Margaret went to Burnside, as indicated by JB, but James's tenancy was confirmed in the Whitburn parish records of 1834, where he was recorded as the head of household, and also on the 1841 census.¹ If you read JB's extract, you will have seen their granddaughter Ann Black went to live with her grandfather and confirmation is found below. Also living in the house that night was Janet Stewart, another granddaughter. As can be seen, James's wife Margaret had died by 1841 but we have no further information about her death.

MARRIAGE AND CHILDREN

The marriage was on 4 June 1815 at Shotts. Their children's baptisms were not found on Scotland's People, so we assume these dates come from family knowledge. It appears from the census records that the children were all born in Cambusnethan except Margaret the eldest.³

- Name: John Black
- Age: 26 years
- Residence: Whitburn
- Parish: Whitburn
- Registrar: James Walker
- Witnesses: James Walker, Son in law
- Date: 1871
- Place of Burial: Longridge

Death certificate – John Black.

Mary lived for another twenty years and died in 1893 aged 93. Both, we assume, were buried in Whitburn.

⁴ Marion's grandmother was Agnes Black married to William Mungle.

JANET BLACK AND WILLIAM MCGREGOR

Janet became Mrs Wm. Macgregor

JANET BLACK

Janet's birth has been estimated as 1799 at Burnside.

WILLIAM MCGREGOR

Nothing is known of William.

MARRIAGE

Janet and William married at Whitburn on 1 March 1828. A family tree has them going to Quebec, in 1834 and William remarrying there in 1839. It appears they had no surviving children and Janet, therefore we assume, died in Quebec around 1838.

MARY BLACK AND ROBERT STEWART

Mary, of Burnside, was married to Robert Stewart, West Forth.

MARY BLACK

Mary was born about 1801 at Whitburn.

ROBERT STEWART

Robert, a cattle dealer from West Forth was born around 1778 in Lanark.

MARRIAGE AND CHILDREN

Robert was 45 and Mary 22 when they married at Whitburn on 6 December 1823.

By 1841 there were three children living at home; John aged eight (and based on that, the first John must have died), Jean aged five and Mary aged two. The eldest daughter Janet was living with her grandfather James Black. Agnes the youngest child told her family that her father had enlisted with the army and the family often didn't know where the next meal was coming from while he was away.

The 1851 census shows Robert had died and we can see a further child Agnes, aged nine, had been born to the couple. The only other child at home, besides Agnes, was Mary, who was now twelve.

DEATH AND BURIAL

Robert was buried at Carnwath on 12 March 1851, just before the census. He was 73. A tree on Ancestry tells us that Mary decided to leave for Canada and travelled in 1856 accompanied by four of her children. Margaret (now Mrs William Ramage) Hugh, John and Agnes. Mary never saw the shores of Canada as she died on the voyage and was buried at sea. Only two daughters remained in Scotland.

THOMAS BLACK AND ANN RUSSELL

Thomas, second Burnside son, was married to Ann, daughter of John Russell, farmer, Foulshiels. Soon after the birth of their one daughter, the mother died, and a few years later the father was killed by the upsetting of his cart. The orphan girl was brought to Burnside, where she assisted her grandfather, and in course of years became Mrs John Sommerville...

THOMAS BLACK

Thomas was born at Burnside on 6 September 1802.

Thomas Black son to James Black and Margaret Nisbit spouses in Burnside was born 6 Sept 1802.

ANN RUSSELL

Annie as she was sometimes recorded was born on around 1802; her father John Russell was from Foulshiels. Various properties named Foulshiels can be seen on the map between Whitburn and Stoneyburn.

⁵ It is thought that Mary's second to youngest daughter (also Mary) was on the ship as well. She certainly married in Canada in 1863. It is possible she was listed as a married woman on the passenger list, and travelling under a different name, but we have no evidence about this.

SON-2.3-JAMES BLACK AND MARGARET NISBIT

MARRIAGE AND CHILDREN

We find the marriage on 1 January 1825 at Whitburn. Their daughter Ann's birth is not found but it is estimated as late 1825, as in January 1826, we find her mother's burial at Whitburn.

ALEXANDER BLACK AND MARY GALBRAITH

Alexander, third son of James, of Burnside, is highly entitled to very honourable mention, because, at the cost of his own, he saved the life of another man from drowning in the Forth near Stirling. His wife's name was Mary Galbraith. They had four sons and one daughter. James ... Alexander ... Peter ... John. Janet, the hero's only daughter....

Initially we thought Mary had died around 1834 and Alexander had remarried around 1838 to a Janet, instead the gap between the children's birth years and the naming of Alexander's wife as Janet on the 1841 census, must have another explanation. In 1841 Alexander was a carter and they were living at Mill Lane Cowane Street.

Margaret Do	10	F	Y
Alexander Do	8	M	Y
Peter Do	5	M	Y
Janet Do	1	F	Y

1841 census – Stirling, Stirlingshire.

DEATH AND BURIAL

JB claimed that Alexander drowned in the Forth when his son John was four. Although a newspaper account was not found, Alexander was described on one daughter's marriage certificate as a 'ship owner's carter', so we can picture him at the waterfront loading and unloading ships. If John was four, Alexander drowned around 1850, purportedly 'because, at the cost of his own, he saved the life of another man from drowning in the Forth near Stirling'. We know from a second daughter's marriage that the event had occurred before 7 September 1850, as he was described as deceased when the banns were recorded.

As the only burial on Scotland's People in 1850 is for a seven-year-old, we have no exact date for his death and if his body was washed out to sea, no burial record would exist.

Alexander's wife Mary must have died around the same time as by 1851 the children were living apart. As they are mentioned individually by JB, their story continues later.

JANE BLACK AND DAVID ROBERTS

... and Jane Mrs David Roberts, Burnbrae.

JANE BLACK

Jane, the youngest child was born at Burnside on 26 December 1805.

DAVID ROBERTS

David was the son of David Roberts and Elizabeth Thomson and born on 31 July 1803, in Bathgate.

ROBERT THOMSON

Robert, whose parents were likely to be James Thomson and Jane Johnstone, was born around 1822 at Hillhead, Lanarkshire. He varied his place of birth on each census so we can't be certain of these details.

*Agnes Stark	23 Aug 1869	Cambusnethan	James Baxter	1928

By 1871 there were twelve people in the house including children and grandchildren from William's first marriage. In 1875 Isabella was widowed and six weeks later she was forced to apply for relief from the Cambusnethan parochial board. Her address was recorded as Kirklands Land. She correctly stated that both her parents had died, but they had died in America. She received two shillings in relief.

Cambusnethan Parochial Board.

DEATH AND BURIAL

Isabella died on 1 September 1881 at Wishaw.

CHILDREN OF JOHN BLACK AND MARY GREY

JAMES BLACK AND MARGARET MEEK

James and his wife, both deceased, left two sons, John and James, and two daughters, Mary and Janet.

JAMES BLACK

SON-2.3-JAMES BLACK AND MARGARET NISBIT

James was born about 1827 in Whitburn. Initially we could not make sense of JB's account as he appeared on all the census records living with his parents until he was 44 and was shown as single. Eventually we uncovered his story.

MARGARET MEEK

Margaret was born about 1842 in Whitburn. Her mother was Janet Meek, and her father was unnamed.

MARRIAGE AND CHILDREN

Margaret was fifteen years younger than James. The couple married on 20 November 1872. Exactly as JB said, we found the four children he had named.

MARGARET BLACK AND WILLIAM HAMILTON

... John, married to Mary Grey ... There were four daughters, Margaret ...

SON-2.3-JAMES BLACK AND MARGARET NISBIT

MARGARET BLACK

Margaret was the eldest Black of Moss daughter and was born around 1829. For some reason, in 1851, she was the farmer of 24 acres living at Burnside, Whitburn with her sister Mary aged 13. She and Mary were back home for the 1861 census. (Burnside was the home of her grandparents James Black and Margaret Nisbet – the couple that this chapter is about, and they had moved to Blackburn, Livingston by 1861.)

WILLIAM HAMILTON

William was born in Antrim, Ireland around 1838.

MARRIAGE AND CHILDREN

The marriage took place in Whitburn soon after the 1871 census when Margaret was 42 and William 33. Unsurprisingly there were only two children.

DEATH AND BURIAL

Margaret died in 1921; William, although younger had died in 1903. They both died at Bellshill.

AGNES NISBIT BLACK AND JAMES WALKER

SON-2.3-JAMES BLACK AND MARGARET NISBIT

... Agnes, wife of James Walker, Grahamston.

AGNES NISBIT BLACK

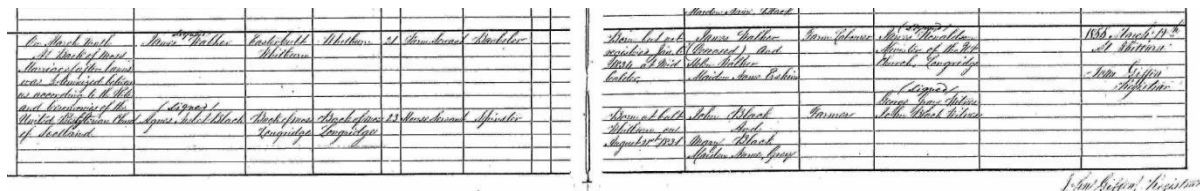

Agnes was born on 21 August 1831 at Whitburn.

JAMES WALKER

James, a butcher, was born on 6 January 1834 in Mid Calder. On his marriage he gave his parents as James Walker and Helen Combe Erskine, but it is understood this couple never married.

MARRIAGE AND CHILDREN

James and Agnes's marriage was found on 9 March 1855 at her parent's home, Back of Moss, Whitburn.

Marriage certificate - James Walker and Agnes Nisbet Black.

Seven children were located.

CHILD OF THOMAS BLACK AND ANN RUSSELL

ANN BLACK AND JOHN SOMMERVILLE

The orphan girl was brought to Burnside, where she assisted her grandfather, and in course of years became Mrs John Sommerville. She is now in her widowhood, living with a son in Greenock. Another son is in Edinburgh, and there are also two daughters. It ought, in strict justice, to be told that much of the information in this history was gleaned by her during a lengthy lifetime, she being now over eighty years of age.

ANN BLACK

Ann Black was orphaned soon after she was born (around 1825); her mother probably died as a result of childbirth and her father died soon after. We now realise that she remained in contact with her maternal grandfather John Russell, and Ann's son Ebenezer was probably named after John Russell's son from a second marriage. Ann's daughter Mary was living with John Russell (her great-grandfather) in 1871 in Bathgate.

JOHN SOMMERVILLE

John was probably born or baptised on 6 January 1812 in Cambusnethan. William Sommerville and Mary Lowden being his parents.

MARRIAGE AND CHILDREN

The marriage was around 1849 when John was 37 and Annie 23.

DEATH AND BURIAL

JB gave much of the glory for his work to Ann Sommerville and she died on 12 January 1915 in Kilsyth.

WHITBURN.

THE LATE MRS SOMMERVILLE.

A MEMORIAL TRIBUTE.

Early last week Mrs John Sommerville, aged 89 years, passed away in the home of her daughter, Mrs Belcher, near Kilsyth. Having lived latterly for many years with her son, Andrew, an herbalist in Greenock, she was probably less known in this part of the country than she had been during most of her previous existence. Still, now and again, even when well advanced in years, she occasionally made lengthy summer visits to the parishes of Whitburn, Bathgate, Shotts, and latterly to West Calder, near which place, at Little Harwood, she stayed in the house of her cousin, John Black, formerly of Back o' Moss, Longridge. Mr Walker, grocer, Bathgate, being a cousin's son, also received frequent visits from Mrs Sommerville, when on her pilgrimages throughout her native district. Her father, Thomas Black, was married to Ann Russell, of Foulshields Farm, and either there, or quite near, their only child, Ann, was born. Being early orphaned she was taken to the home of her grandfather, Robert Black, at Burnside Farm. The homestead has completed disappeared, but the place where it stood is only a short distance from the farm house of Turnhigh. When advanced to womanhood Ann Black became Mrs Sommerville, and by either of these names has been known and esteemed by those who knew her during the intervening time. There were several sons and daughters of the marriage, most of whom survive their parents, for Mr Sommerville predeceased his wife many years ago. Her health was always remarkable, and her equanimity of spirits was doubtless favourable to longevity.

Mrs Sommerville was an outstanding type of the good old Scottish peasantry; plain, thrifty, and intelligent. She was fond of reading, a good observer, and one who pondered well over what she saw and learned. Further she was a woman sincerely devout, and until the close of her long life-time was sustained and comforted by her Christian faith.

She was homely, genial, and withal possessed of a quiet dignity, which added a comeliness to her serenity of countenance. Like not a few of the old-time Scotswomen, she was skilled in the uses of herbs and "simples" as aids to health, and as remedial agents, and with these she accomplished much good work.

For a considerable time she has been the oldest representative of the "Blacks of Breich Water district," and as was told in the outline history of these Blacks, to her careful effort and remarkable memory was largely due the information given by her kinsman, John Black, author of "Melodies and Memories."

The funeral of Mrs Sommerville took place at Kilsyth on Friday of last week, and it may be added that those who knew her well will still remember kindly the calm, sensible old friend, and her simple, wholesome life. If not among the so-called "great," she was certainly one of the worthy "little ones."

West Lothian Courier, Friday 23 January 1915.

Ann's grandfather was of course James not Robert.

CHILDREN OF ALEXANDER BLACK AND MARY GALBRAITH

JAMES BLACK AND MARY LITTLE

James, eldest, a baker in Glasgow, went with his family to Melbourne. He and his wife died in Dunedin several years ago.

JAMES BLACK

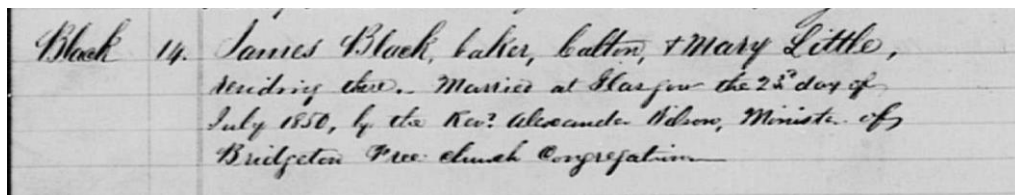

James was born about 1828 in Stirling. As stated by JB, James was a baker and by 1850 he had moved to Glasgow.

MARY LITTLE

Mary was born about 1830 in Renfrew her mother was Eizabeth Wright and her father John Little.

MARRIAGE AND CHILDREN

The marriage took place in Barony, Glasgow on 23 July 1850.

Parish marriage records - Barony, Glasgow, Lanark.

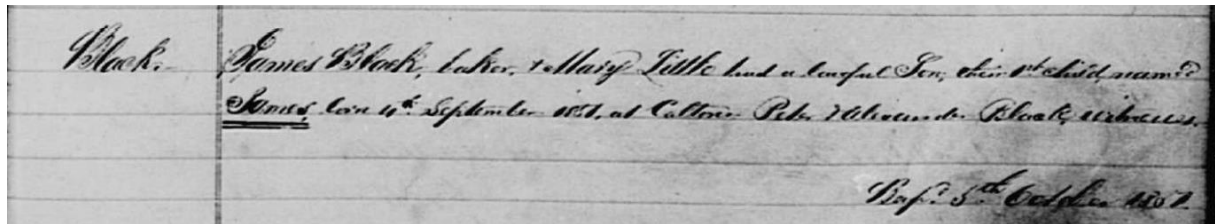

A year later, the census records show that James and Mary were caring for James's two younger brothers, Peter and John as both their parents had died before September 1850.

Perhaps in early 1852, James and Mary sailed for Australia, (Melbourne according to JB) where only one further child was found, but of course there may have been more.

MARGARET BLACK AND ARTHUR LIDDELL

Janet, [wasn't] the hero's only daughter

It seems unfair to omit Margaret from this story because JB was unaware of her existence so we are righting this wrong so that the other hero's other daughter isn't forgotten.

MARGARET BLACK

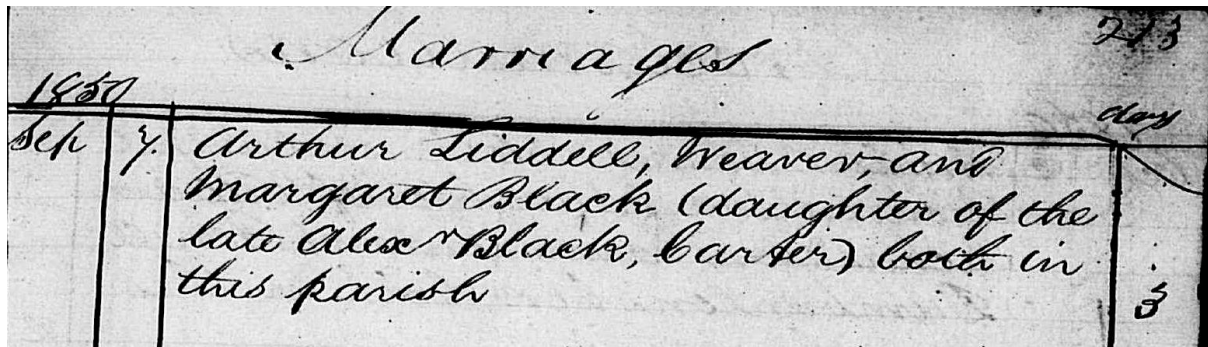

Margaret, born around 1831, appeared on the 1841 census aged ten along with the rest of her family.

ARTHUR LIDDELL

Arthur was around ten years older than Margaret. He was born, he claims, in Glasgow about 1823 to parents Arthur Liddell and Kate but no record exists. Arthur was recorded on the 1841 census as a tartan hand loom weaver apprentice in Stirling.

MARRIAGE AND CHILDREN

The banns in the Stirling parish registers dated 7 September 1850 show:

Parish marriage records – Stirling, Stirlingshire.

‘Arthur Liddell, weaver and Margaret Black (daughter of the late Alexr Black, Carter) both in this parish.’

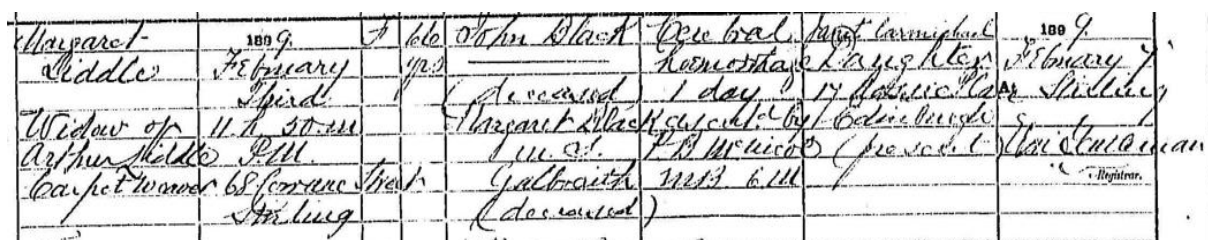

The actual marriage appears to have occurred on 23 September; a date given by Arthur on five separate occasions but what is more significant, is that from this record we know Alexander had died by 7 September 1850.

Twelve children were located and sadly many died before they were one. The spelling varies from Liddell, Liddel and Liddle.

SON-2.3-JAMES BLACK AND MARGARET NISBIT

Margaret's daughter was unable to give the name of her grandparents and instead gave the name of her paternal uncle, John Black and his wife Margaret.

ALEXANDER BLACK AND SARAH WOODS

Alexander, second son, was formerly a tannery manager in London, afterwards going to Belgium.

ALEXANDER BLACK

Alexander was born about 1833 in Stirling. By 1851, he was living with the Hardie family in Stirling; his occupation was currier's apprentice. His choice of career gave him a lifelong employment in the leather industry, leading him to employment in London and later Belgium. All the English census records confirm that Alexander was a tannery manager, and by all accounts a very successful one.

SARAH WOODS

Sarah, daughter of James Woods and Jane Elson was baptised on 26 June 1838 in Surrey, England.

MARRIAGE AND CHILDREN

SON-2.3-JAMES BLACK AND MARGARET NISBIT

A tree on Ancestry tells us that Janet was born on 13 November 1841 in Stirling but as she appeared on the 1841 census aged one, perhaps this should read 13 November 1839. By September 1850 her father had died and the following year she was living with John Aitken's family, working as a servant. John was a shipowner and we surmise he was her father's employer before he died. She is recorded as fourteen but would have been eleven.

JOHN WRIGHT GILMOUR

John, who later added his mother's surname as his middle name was born on 8 December 1840 in Glasgow. His mother was Elizabeth Wright and his father John Gilmour. We met John earlier in our story; he was the John Gilmour living with James Black in 1841. His mother Elizabeth Wright had married John Little and their daughter Mary married Janet's brother James Black. On the death of John Little, Elizabeth married John Gilmour and their son (also John) was living with three of Janet Black's siblings in 1841. John was an iron turner.

MARRIAGE AND CHILDREN

In a case of siblings marrying (half) siblings, Janet Black married James Gilmour on 18 November 1864 at Tradeston, Glasgow.

In 1882 the family sailed for Dunedin. The passenger list isn't found but several pieces of evidence all point to that date. Their last child was born in New Zealand, but he lived for only a few days.

DEATH AND BURIAL

John died on 15 July 1908 and Janet on 7 August 1920. They were buried in the Northern Cemetery with their baby son who died in 1884, and other family members.

JOHN BLACK, MARY SLOAN AND MARGARET McINDEWAR

John, the youngest son, who had hard times in his youth, being orphaned when only four years of age, knew life as a herd-boy at Liltie-co-kee and at Craighead. He became a cooper, a musician, and, in manners and morals, a man worth knowing. With his family of sons and daughters he now lives in Glasgow.

JOHN BLACK

John was born about 1846 in Stirling. Both his parents had died before he was five. Initially he was raised by his oldest brother James but when James emigrated to Australia, John went to 'The Breich' perhaps initially to family, but in 1861 he was living on a large farm looking after cows. He later trained as a cooper just as JB stated.
